Decisive action on medicines shortages should be included in pharmaceutical and industrial strategies

For Immediate Release

Brussels, 17 September 2020

Medicines for Europe applauds that the European Parliament has clearly recognised the key role that off-patent medicines bring to patient access to essential medicines and have called to examine measures aimed at stimulating healthy competition for generic and biosimilar medicines.

The Own Initiative Report, led by members of the parliamentary committee for Health (ENVI), has adopted constructive initiatives to tackle the root causes of medicines shortages that the European Commission should include in the forthcoming pharmaceutical and industrial strategies.

Concrete policy solutions include targeted guidelines on medicines procurement to help Member States improve their unsustainable purchasing practices. This can be achieved by implementing the MEAT criteria and awarding more than one company in tender decisions to build a secure supply framework nationally.

The report factors in best practice initiatives from the COVID19 outbreak such as dialogue with industry and pragmatic regulatory flexibilities. The latter can mitigate shortages by allowing flexibilities on pack size and the introduction of electronic product information/e-leaflet. To enable regulatory authorities to promptly share key information, the report calls for regulatory optimization. This can be achieved by amending the EU Variations Regulation and implementing telematics reform. The report also provides a clear signal to strengthen pharmaceutical supply chains, with support from the EU and Member States to introduce the right incentives to encourage manufacturing in Europe.

The EP also outlines the existing framework for wholesalers' and manufacturers' obligation to supply and report disruptions. While all companies have well defined supply obligations under existing contracts with established penalties for failure to supply, doubling penalties and fines on companies will discourage them from participating in tenders and will not help solve medicines shortages.
